

Lighting up Britannia

Chelsom created various bespoke lighting products for public areas onboard P&O Cruises' Britannia.

The newbuild features 12-armed copper chandeliers in the Supper and Limelight Clubs, a quartet of rectangular black LED fittings in the Cookery Club, and an illuminated centrepiece comprised of gloss black and metallic gold 3D diamonds in the Live Lounge Bar.

Meanwhile, Epicurean Restaurant has a centrepiece comprised of 9m of interwoven gold gilded metal ribbons with LED strips, and the Oasis spa is adorned with transparent acrylic rods with individual LED module and bubbles.

Windstar ships get Trimline refresh

Trimline has revamped Windstar Cruises' Star Breeze and Star Legend at Italy's San Giorgio del Porto yard, refreshing the Star Signature Shops, adding new Amphora restaurants and converting two rooms into Star Screening Rooms.

The company also upgraded decor and flooring in the gyms, Compass Rose bars and StarBars, and replaced the top-deck pool with a protected outdoor seating area for the Veranda dining venue.

Tillberg Design US targets expedition ships

Tillberg Design US is working with a number of key players to develop the next generation of expedition cruise ships.

The company recently completed work on a series of luxury expedition ships including Paul Gauguin Cruises' Tere Moana and Paul Gauguin, and several SunStone Ships vessels.

"The rate of expansion of the expeditionary cruise market has been hitting double digits lately," said Tomas Tillberg, the company's managing partner. "As an innovative design firm that has contributed to our industry with some of the most iconic new cruise ship concepts, we're excited to be at the forefront of this rapidly evolving segment of the market."
